ALEXANDRIA AFFAIRS

Planning for Centennial Celebration of Peace With England

OFFICIALS WATCH SHIP

Customs Officers From Baltimore See

Schooner Emma F. Angell

Discharge Cargo.

Special Correspondence of The Star.
ALEXANDRIA, Va., October 31, 1913.
The local committee in charge of the celebration to be held here in 1914-1915 in observance of the one hundredth anniversary of the signing of the treaty of Ghent, or peace among the English-speaking people, will hold a meeting at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at the office of John M. Johnson, chairman of the city committee. This meeting will be for the purpose of selecting representatives to attend a meeting of the general committee of arrangements which will be held in Richmond December 3-4 next. The general committee meeting is for the purpose of deciding and hearing proposals for the form of celebration to be held here. Monday will preside at the Richmond meeting.

Custom Officials on Guard.

In the presence of three customs officials from Baltimore the work of discharging the cargo of 1,000 tons of rock plaster from the schooner Emma F. Angell from Nova Scotia is now in progress. It will be fully four days before the task is completed. The customs officials will remain until the entire cargo is discharged. Customs officials have been on the alert for Parisian gowns which it was suspected were to be smuggled into the country. Many public and private entertainments, dances and other forms of amusement among the younger set will mark the observance of Halloween here, while the number of private parties are numerous. A large number of youngsters have planned masquerade parties and doubtless many will be seen on the streets. However, the police will keep strict surveillance of the precocious youngsters who make a habit of haunting doorways, ringing door bells and throwing flour and meal at pedestrians. Those caught will be made to face the charge of disorderly conduct in the police court in the morning.

Discuss Good Roads.

A largely attended meeting in the interest of good roads and a bond issue for them, which will be voted on Tuesday next by the residents of Mount Vernon district, Fairfax county, was held last night at Potter's schoolhouse, that county. P. St. John Wilson, state highway commissioner, delivered the principal address of the evening. James W. Roberts presided and introduced the speaker. Others present made informal short talks on the subject.

Hall Suit Is Compromised.

The suit of John W. Hall against the Washington-Southern Railway Company has been compromised. Hall sought damages for injuries which necessitated the amputation of both legs while employed as a brakeman by the company. The case was to have been heard in the circuit court for Alexandria county Monday last. Attorney Leo P. Harlow represented the complainant, and the company was represented by Col. F. L. Smith.

Rev. Benjamin Donald Gave, D. D.,

pastor of the West Washington Baptist Church, will open revival services at the First Baptist Church Monday night, which will be concluded November 16. These services will be held nightly at 7:45 o'clock with the exception of Saturday nights. Special music will be given.

Funeral services for John H. Milledge were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the home of his son-in-law J. Edward Smith, 205 South Royal street. They were conducted by Rev. P. P. Phillips, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Members of Alexandria-Washington Lodge of Masons attended.

The degree work of the order will be conferred on a class of twelve candidates Monday next by Oriental Court, No. 10. The ceremonies will be attended by a delegation of members of the order from Washington.

A number of Masons from this city have been attending the annual meeting of the Grand Royal Arch Chapter in Richmond returned home today. J. E. W. Timberman of this city was elected grand principal, and James E. Alexander, also of this city, was reappointed assistant grand lecturer.

SUFFER IN NEW ZEALAND

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, October 31.—A shortage of food and fuel with its accompanying privations for the poorer classes is commencing to be felt throughout New Zealand as a result of a general strike of coal miners and dockers.

Work has ceased in most trades in every part of New Zealand. In Wellington and Auckland, the two principal cities, continued rioting has broken out about the landing of bluejackets from British warships to assist in preserving order. The bluejackets are assigned primarily to protect the men engaged in loading fruit on vessels in the docks and to see that passengers are allowed to embark or land from steamers without molestation.

The struggle which has led to this serious state of affairs is a trial of strength between the employers and the Federation of Labor. The latter organization is not registered under the provisions of the compulsory arbitration and conciliation act passed in 1902, by the terms of which any persons inciting workmen to strike or any employers ordering a lock-out without first going to arbitration are liable to severe penalties.

The labor upheaval began with a strike of shipwrights several weeks ago. The men demanded higher wages, improved working conditions and recognition of their union. The dockers and carpenters shortly afterward laid down their tools in sympathy and other trades followed their example until a large proportion of the organized labor of the dominion has ceased work.

MORE PLACES PROVIDED FOR POSTAL SAVINGS

Department Officials to Stimulate Interest of School Children.

Eighty-six more places are to be provided in this city where persons who wish to save their earnings by using the postal-savings system may do so.

This will happen November 5, when all the regular branches and stations of the city post office and all its contract stations, such as those located in drug stores and similar places, will be supplied with postal savings cards and postal savings stamps for issue to the public.

Many Acquire Saving Habit.

Throughout the country the school children as a rule are ardent patrons of this method of saving their pennies, and as a result many of them in other cities have gradually built up nice little nest eggs and acquired a habit of saving.

In placing the postal savings cards and stamps for issue in the contract stations of Washington, the first city where the experiment is to be tried, the department is endeavoring to ascertain if the results will justify its trial in all the cities of the country.

The Postmaster General, it is said, believes the teachers in the schools, as well as parents, will see the value of the experiment and will co-operate to make it a success more in the interest of the children under their control than for the sake of government purposes.

Postmaster Merritt, in connection with this experiment, has asked the Postmaster General to authorize the establishment of a postal savings depository at station H, 2018 Nichols avenue southeast, where the department has greater convenience of postal savings patrons in that section of the city. The new depository will begin operations December 1, the intervening time being required for necessary preparations.

The frigate was recently sold to

WILSON'S PHILIPPINES POLICY IS COMMENDED

A. P. Lanier Approves Action Changing Complexion of Legislature.

The plan for the solution of the Philippine question by international action suggested by A. P. Lanier, assistant solicitor of the Agricultural Department, last week at the Lake Mohonk conference, was discussed yesterday by Mr. Lanier, who passed through Washington on his way to Richmond, Va., his home. Mr. Lanier served for nearly five years in the Philippines as assistant to the Attorney General.

"The plan proposed by men," said Mr.

Lanier, "is rather too large a subject to be discussed intelligently in a few words, with justice to myself or to the subject. I am glad of the opportunity, however, to say that the action of President Wilson in Philipinizing the legislative branch of the insular government meets with my hearty approval, as it did with that of the conference. It was not only highly expedient under all the circumstances, but the part of the greatest wisdom.

"I suggested my plan of joint international action for the solution of the Philippine question only as an alternative, and for what it may be worth, and because of the apparently irreconcilable conflict of views and opinions among our people and public men as to the right of the United States to take the islands. Their sole possession by us is a hostage in our own hands for our good behavior, so to speak, in all the various countries of the world, and our liberty of action in the world's affairs and a handicap upon us in the fulfillment of our mission and God-given destiny among the nations of the earth."

Grave Situation at Border.

"At this moment a grave situation exists along our southern border in a sister republic, and the Monroe doctrine, which is about the only consistent foreign policy our government has ever had, is being now threatened by a coalition among the European powers, having for its object joint intervention in the affairs of Mexico. Our people will never tolerate such action, but we view the prospect of it with uneasiness and anxiety because of the dangers that threaten us from another direction by reason of our possession of the Philippines, for they are an incitement to armed conflict with those who were our friends in the past, and who would be today but for our acquisition of those islands, which are a source of weakness and inconsistency in our defense of the American doctrine.

"Already the shadow of a mighty racial conflict, hastening to realization because of the protection of our sovereignty into the Orient, in which our country must, for many reasons, bear the brunt, is discerned by those whose vision is not dimmed by commercial interests, or obscured by the pursuit of material gain and a provincial outlook upon the great movements and tendencies of modern times. And when that contest comes, which God forbid, there will then be determined whether the world shall be controlled by the principles and ideals of occidental or oriental civilizations, and our possession of the Philippines will be found in that conflict a costly legacy of the gravest strategic weakness to us, and not of strength, and may prove the determinative factor against the supremacy of our civilization in the contest.

Natives Must Be Developed.

"Whilst I am an advocate of seeking and adopting any solution of the problem that will enable us to honorably withdraw our sovereignty from the Philippines without injury or injustice to the masses of the natives of the islands, yet I wish understood beyond question that I am opposed to our withdrawal from the islands, or to their independence, until some such solution is found, even though it necessitates our remaining there for the last syllable of recorded time. Nor would I consent to any international arrangement for solving the problem that did not have for its basis the training and development of the natives of the islands for self-government along the lines we have inaugurated, and for their ultimate independence and neutralization."

PLAN FOR MEMORIAL HALTED.

Proposed Tablet to John T. Morgan on Canal in Abeyance.

Acting Secretary Breckinridge of the War Department has held up the application of the Southern Commercial Congress for permission to place at some prominent point in the Panama Canal Zone a bronze tablet about four by six feet in size, showing a medallion illustration of Senator John T. Morgan of Alabama, who died in 1907. The tablet also is to contain a legend detailing the consistent efforts of Senator Morgan in favor of an isthmian canal. It had been suggested that the tablet be placed near tower R at Gamboa, at the northern entrance to Culebra cut. Mr. Breckinridge explained that so many people had been identified with the construction of the canal in its different stages covering a long period of time that he felt that this particular application should be held up until Secretary Garrison, who is now on the isthmus, had been able to formulate a general policy to be followed in such cases. Secretary Garrison is expected to return to this city November 11.

Burglars Get $50,000 in Loot.

B. J. Ramage, an attorney in the bureau of corporations, Department of Commerce, has been transferred to the Department of Justice.
